

Current Topics in Therapeutic Veterinary Nutrition

Tom Cameron, DVM
Featuring Equine & Small Animal Support Products

Dr. Cameron is a Wisconsin-based veterinarian specializing in holistic and conventional therapies. He currently serves as the Technical Support Director for Standard Process, while maintaining his private practice of 30 years. A long-time proponent of canine and feline nutrition, Dr. Cameron has used Standard Process products since 1994 and speaks nationally on the role of whole food nutrition in today's veterinary medicine.

Date & Time	Location	Hotel Phone
Wednesday, February 15, 2012 12:00—2:00 pm (lunch served)	Marriott Courtyard Boulder 4710 Pearl East Circle Boulder, CO 80301	Hotel Phone: (303) 440-4700
Thursday, February 16, 2012 12:00—3:00 pm (lunch served)	Embassy Suites 4705 Clydesdale Parkway Loveland, CO 80538	Hotel Phone: (970) 593-6200

Current Topics in Therapeutic Veterinary Nutrition

Nationwide, veterinarians are seeing the same rise in chronic and debilitating pet diseases as their human counterparts. The loss of essential nutrients during routine pet food processing leaves a deficit in the raw materials necessary for proper cellular health and reproduction. The addition of synthetic vitamins, grain-based fillers, preservatives and colorings create further toxic burden on the pet.

Metabolic and physiologic disturbances need to be addressed with specific, therapeutic nutrition that supports the function of vital organs. With this focused approach, we can generate a more rapid response and more widespread improvements in the cellular function of both small animals and equine pets.

Dr. Tom Cameron is coming back to Colorado to continue his teaching in veterinary nutrition. During this trip, he'll discuss:

- New Equine Products—GI, Immune and Performance
- Equine Nutrition Case Reviews and Associated Protocols
- New Small Animal Product—Canine Flex Support
- Small Animal Case Reviews and Associated Protocols
- Questions & Answers

You are welcome to attend one or more of these lunch & learn events.

CALL NOW TO REGISTER
(800) 321-9807

Submitting Questions in Advance

Dr. Cameron encourages participants to submit their direct questions and case histories prior to the event so he is sure to address everyone's interests in the short time allotted.

Please submit your questions via email to:

Jodi Duddeck
SP Certified Veterinary Technician
jduddeck@standardprocess.com

 If you are unable to attend, please indicate that you need an individual response.*

Standard Process
VETERINARY FORMULAS™

Sponsored by Selene River Press and Standard Process West • Call 800.321.9807 to Register Today!