A Functional Approach Can Differentiate Your Practice

Functional medicine, whether it be human or veterinary, is grounded in nutrition and has proven to have a direct and positive impact on patient symptoms and quality of life. The World Small Animal Veterinary Association’s (WSAVA) Global Nutrition Guidelines expect that every pet patient have a nutritional assessment at every visit, because optimal nutrition is critical to optimal health.

Once again, Dr. Tom Cameron is returning to Colorado to share his approach for integrating functional nutrition in a conventional veterinary setting. Chronic conditions, including many classified as autoimmune, like thyroid imbalances, metabolic disorders and inflammatory diseases, are reaching statistical highs in the veterinary patient population. Attendees will learn to assess the patient from a functional viewpoint, prioritize broken systems and create natural protocols to adjunct any treatment plan. A portion of the program will review real patient cases previously presented by discussing the root cause and the results of 12 weeks of nutritional therapy.

Co-sponsored by Selene River Press and Standard Process West • Call (800) 321-9807 to register today!
About Tom Cameron, DVM
Dr. Cameron has a wide range of practice experience, including dairy and small animal medicine and surgery. He owned a private, holistic small animal veterinary clinic for 12 years, offering conventional medical therapies, as well as nutrition, chiropractic, acupuncture and animal massage. Afterwards, he served 9 years as the Director of Technical Support for Veterinary Products at Standard Process Inc., assisting field practitioners and speaking at national veterinary events about the critical importance of dietary nutrition and supplementation.

Currently, Dr. Cameron is the owner of Cameron Veterinary Consulting (CVC), providing private consultation services for animals, with a focus on nutrition for prevention and treatment of health conditions. Other areas of expertise include photonic and cold laser therapy. Dr. Cameron brings a unique, whole body, integrated approach to the clinical treatment of animals and continues to provide lectures to veterinarians, staff and pet owners on how to use nutrition and targeted supplementation to optimize health.

Call Standard Process West to Register Today!
(800) 321-9807

Registration and Fees:
The registration fee for this event is complimentary; however, reservations are required for participation to ensure sufficient meal service. Doctors requesting CEUs will be charged $75.00 for three credits upon registration.

Who Should Attend:
In addition to veterinarians, veterinary technicians and other staff involved with patient care are encouraged to attend.

Complimentary Meal Service:
All three seminars are working meetings in which a healthy meal will be served promptly at the start of each program, compliments of Standard Process West, Inc.

North Denver - Tuesday, 4/4/2017
Time: 5:30 pm - 8:30 pm
DoubleTree by Hilton Hotel
83 E 120th Avenue
Northglenn, CO 80233
Hotel phone: (303) 920-8000

Loveland - Wednesday, 4/5/2017
Time: 5:30 pm - 8:30 pm
Embassy Suites
4705 Clydesdale Parkway
Loveland, CO 80538
Hotel phone: (970) 593-6200

Colorado Springs - Thurs, 4/6/2017
Time: 12:00 pm - 3:00 pm
Colorado Springs Marriott
5580 Tech Center Drive
Colorado Springs, CO 80919
Hotel phone: (719) 260-1800

Stay Informed, Keep Learning - Teleconference
Join other like-minded practitioners and staff for a monthly teleconference call hosted by various veterinarian speakers who use Standard Process products and functional nutrition in their practices. These meetings are held every month on the 3rd Wednesday at 7:00 PM (MT).
To access, call (302) 202-1118 and enter code 904168.

* Standard Process staff will be available at each meeting location approximately ½ hour prior to the start of each program.

* AVMA is a constituent organization of the AVMA